Rabbi's Reflections

RABBI JOSHUA GRAY

Our Bereishit

Dear Temple Isaiah Family,

I am writing this short message on our family's first night on Long Island. Meghan, Cameron, Lena, and I could not be more excited to immerse ourselves in this beautiful Temple community, as well as the community at large. While it is possible that you have already read a bit about me, I am interested in getting to know you. I truly believe in the servant leadership model, and I am here...to be here for you. Let us pray together, sing together, laugh together, and enjoy simchas and tzures as one mishpacha—one family. I plan on reaching out to each member family individually during my first months as your Rabbi. I will work to earn your trust, and to always listen. Every person comes to the Temple as an individual; each having different needs, different experiences, different approaches. It is important for me to meet people where they are, and that is what I strive to do. Shema Yisrael is so central to Judaism. "Listen, Israel!" I take these words to heart.

Our annual Torah cycle finds us in Bamidbar, the Book of Numbers. As the Israelites prepare to enter the Promised Land, or eret z'vat chalav u'devash (a land flowing with milk and honey), they find themselves overcome with many highs, and also maneuvering their way through challenging times. As a Temple family, we will experience much together in the moments to come, but I know that we will do so with the joy of Judaism at the forefront of our minds and actions. I am already overwhelmed by the warmth and kindness that our family has been shown over the many months leading up to my official start. Thank you to each and every one of you who has been a part of this journey so far. You are all incredible people with remarkable neshamot. I only hope to return such gifts to the community, and smile as all of our inner lights combine to create one amazing flame. It is only appropriate that our first official moment together comes in the form of a Havdalah service. The braided candle with many wicks eventually becomes one larger and more dazzling flame. Is this not a beautiful symbol for what a congregation can be when we all work together to create a holy community striving toward its fullest potential?

I believe that creation is an ongoing process and that Torah is alive and filled with ruach, with breath. May we continue to create together; to bring to life the energy of joyful, profound and musical prayer. May the buzz of Jewish learning across generations fill our halls. May the togetherness of our sacred community work together to truly repair the world. Mah norah HaMakom hazeh: How full of awe is this place?! Let us begin...

L'Shalom,

Rabbi Josh

Introducing Rabbi Joshua Gray

BY DONNA NEWMAN

Temple Isaiah's New Rabbi Emphasizes Joyful Judaism

Temple Isaiah is launching a new direction this summer with a modern approach: Joyful Judaism – and the Temple's search committee found the perfect spiritual leader to guide this transition.

"We're very excited to welcome Rabbi Joshua Gray and his family to Long Island to bring music, spirituality and joy to our lives," said Temple President Howie Kanowitz. "Upon receipt of the unanimous approval of the search committee, the Temple board and congregation, Rabbi Josh will serve as both rabbi and cantor. This is his first pulpit, and we hope he'll lead our community for a long, long time."

A recently ordained rabbi, at 36 years of age, he brings to his rabbinate a wealth of life, work, and Jewish service experience that makes him uniquely qualified to speak to the inclusive Jewish spirit of today. His life journey began in the theater. "My beginnings as a professional actor/singer opened my voice and spirit up to endless possibilities that manifest themselves in the way I approach Judaism; musically and full of 'simcha' (joy), acceptance and passion," said Rabbi Josh. "I am also very family-oriented, as I believe that the voices of children and families in a sanctuary create holiness. My amazing wife, Meghan, is my favorite cantorial soloist, with her incredible voice and spirit. Our children, Cameron (8) and Lena (3), keep us engaged with the youngest of congregants."

Prior work experience in Rabbi Josh's background added an additional skill set to his already impressive resumé. "In addition to his warmth and approachability, Rabbi Josh has a BA in Psychology from Penn State and has worked in the field of mental health, which we considered to be a bonus, especially in the stressful times in which we live," said Marge Weiser, co-chair of the search committee.

Working with a Reform and a Conservative congregation upstate, he designed and delivered a three-part course on mental health and wellness as seen through a Jewish lens. In a cover letter sent with his resumé Rabbi Josh wrote, "To put it simply, I am a Rabbi who tries to live the spirit of 'Hineini- Here I am!'"

His exuberance for Judaism, scholarship, pastoral care, liturgy, and teaching all ages shines through. "After a time as an independent rabbi providing ritual services, life-cycle events and Jewish education, he is ready to be infused with the soul of a community and become a congregational rabbi."

"Every member of the search committee had the same feeling after our first interview with Rabbi Josh," said member Gary Kamen. "It felt as though it was divine intervention that brought him to us. In Yiddish the word is bashert... which translates in English to 'meant to be'. We are delighted to have found each other."

SIMCHAS & TZURES

Whether you have happy news (simchas) or sad news (tzures), we hope you will share it with us. Please let us know about births, engagements, weddings, and other happy occasions, as well as hospitalizations, sicknesses, or deaths. If you would like one of our rabbis to officiate at a funeral, please speak to Rabbi Gay before scheduling. Our sanctuary is available for funeral or memorial services.

A Message From Our President

HOWARD KANOWITZ

Get ready for Joyful Judaism!

Those of us who have met our new Rabbi Joshua Gray have already been inspired by his enthusiasm, energy, spirituality, and his love of Judaism. His compassionate and caring personality will set a wonderful example for our youth. We look forward to the rebirth and energizing of Temple Isaiah as we once again engage our Temple community and beyond!

As of the writing of this article, Rabbi Josh is preparing a beautiful Havdalah service, in which he will be joined by his wife, Meghan. We know that this will be the first of many times that Meghan will grace us with her lovely voice.

We will be celebrating Shabbat with Rabbi Josh and his family on July 7th at 6PM. I hope everyone will come out to meet our new Rabbi and Meghan! Of course, there will be many more beautiful services to come.

Be on the lookout for additional opportunities to meet Rabbi Josh. We are planning Nosh with Josh meetings at Temple, as well as at the homes of congregants. And be on the lookout for our energetic new Rabbi at parks, on trails and maybe even at your favorite supermarket.

We look forward to reviving many of our programs, from Tot Shabbat to Adult Education. Rabbi Josh can't wait to meet our children of all ages. We will embark on this exciting journey together, and we will embrace all the possibilities that lie ahead.

MINDFUL MATTERS WITH REBBETZIN MEGHAN

Making it Home

Home is a place you always have. It's a place you've been to before, and a place that you continue to take with you. It's like an invisible suitcase that holds memories, warm blankets, company and lots of light. This home is within us, and we hold it's contents even though it can be heavy sometimes.

One time I took a trip to home. This trip was long, but I had already been.

I already knew. There were lots of stories and blankets to keep me company and I had it with me even before I got there. It had stories, memories and plenty of warmth and light. I was home. I was always there, but came back to stay.

Thank you for helping us find our home here, and welcoming us with open arms. We cannot wait to collaborate, connect and share love and light together for many years to come.

Temple Isaiah Religious School

FROM THE PRINCIPAL'S DESK

It is an honor and a privilege to have been asked to serve as the Principal of the Rabbi Harvey Witman Religious School for a third time, proving the wisdom of the late great New York Yankee and Rabbinic sage (even if he wasn't Jewish or ordained) Yogi Berra, who often commented, "It ain't over until it's over."

Anyone who works as a Jewish professional knows the accuracy and wisdom contained in that saying. This adage is definitely true in Jewish education where teachers and administrators are constantly planning three to six months ahead to ensure that the educational program and special days, trips and holiday projects will be significant, meaningful and age-appropriate.

When I began working at Temple Isaiah in 1980 I quickly solidified my admiration for Harvey Witman's skill as an able and wise teacher and as a superb school administrator. Harvey was always at the creative edge of Religious School programming, mixing informal youth group techniques with formal classroom instruction, many years before such techniques were even on the radar screens of Jewish organizations.

In 1987, in the journal honoring Harvey, the congregation's then Rabbi, and now Rabbi Emeritus Adam Fisher commented, "Harvey Witman is loved and respected and considered a friend by his students, their parents, and the faculty as well. He has created one of the finest religious schools in the New York area, and is himself an important model for all of what it means to be a Jew in our time." More than 35 years later it's still true.

I summed up all that Harvey is and has meant to our Temple the last time I was Principal by quoting the Danny Siegel poem, "And God Braided Eve's Hair."

*If you always assume
The man sitting next to you
Is the messiah waiting for some simple human kindness
You will soon come to weigh your words
and watch your hands.
And if he so chooses
Not to reveal himself in your time
It will not matter.*

I am humbled, honored and consider myself privileged to once again follow the path trod by Harvey Witman as the Principal of Temple Isaiah's, now aptly named, Rabbi Harvey Witman Religious School, and I look forward to working with an incredible team of educators to continue the tradition of bringing a high level of Reform Jewish education to the Three Village area.

Chazak, chazak, v'nitchazayk.

SOCIAL ACTION ACTIONS

Although it may be hard to beat the huge success of our Pride Shabbat in June, we do have other wonderful ideas and events on the horizon.

It was brought to my attention that there may be some teens who are seeking the opportunity to participate, and the Social Action Committee welcomes the vitality and enthusiasm of our teen population. Please contact me if you have your own thoughts for tikkun olam, and we will do what we can to help you. If you see anything in this column that inspires you, we of course welcome your help.

At this time our committee is starting to plan Mitzvah Day, which will be held on Sunday, November 5th. This year's theme is "Communal Responsibility," and this ties in with "Justice, justice you shall pursue..." Our Religious School teachers will develop this concept with age appropriate discussions and activities. Our committee hopes that congregants will also have ideas about our responsibilities to various other communities of people, as well as to our nation! All ideas, activities, and projects are welcome. If you have the "seed" of an idea, we will help to nurture and develop it.

RABBI TRANSITION COMMITTEE REPORT

The Rabbi Transition Committee has been busy preparing for the arrival and integration of Rabbi Joshua Gray and his family into our Temple community.

Our two-part mission is to assist the Grays as they relocate to our area and to help guide Rabbi Josh as he meets the members of our congregation and takes on the responsibilities of his position.

The Grays were welcomed with a basket of goodies and gift certificates and provided with resources to aid them in their adjustment to Long Island.

Rabbi Josh and Meghan led a beautiful "Heneini" Havdalah Service on July 1st, which was preceded by a Potluck Dinner. He will lead his first musical Shabbat on On July 7th, which will be followed by a festive oneg. In the coming months we will be creating various opportunities for congregants to meet Rabbi Josh in person. Please help us in welcoming Rabbi Josh, Meghan and their children to Temple Isaiah!

BREAKING BREAD WITH BROTHERHOOD

The members of Brotherhood hope everyone is enjoying their Summer.

Let's recap some of the exciting things Brotherhood has been doing these past few months:

Temple Isaiah Brotherhood hosted the bi-monthly meeting of the Men of Reform Judaism on April 26th in the Social Hall. MRJ is an association of Temple Brotherhood groups from Reform Temples across Long Island. Our own Jay Schoenfeld is currently the MRJ Long Island Chapter President. Rabbi Karol gave a fascinating presentation about Bob Dylan's Jewish music.

Brotherhood Shabbat occurred on April 28th and was well attended. Thank you to Sisterhood for sponsoring the Oneg for our service.

Brotherhood continued our tradition in support of the Religious School by cooking hamburgers and hot dogs for the End of the School Year BBQ on May 21st. It was well attended. Thank to Sisterhood and Parents Association for helping out in what was a really fun day.

This year's Brotherhood Scholarship was awarded to Gabriel Kitt. Gabriel is a graduate of Comsewogue High School Class of 2022. He attended the Temple Isaiah Religious School and was a member of the TIRS Confirmation Class of 2021. He is currently attending the University of Albany as a Political Science/Criminal Justice double major. Congratulations to Gabriel.

Brotherhood continued to have the Brotherhood Torah Study

(Schmooze) on the 2nd Thursday evening of every month on Zoom, led by Steve Weitzman. The Schmooze will take the next few months off and will resume in October with the annual Brotherhood Dinner in the Sukkah.

Our next event will be Sunday, July 23rd. This will be a meet and greet with our new Rabbi. This Nosh with Josh will be a great time for Brotherhood members to get to know our new rabbi.

We are also planning more events. Our next Jeopardy Game Night will take place on Wednesday evening, August 2nd at 7 PM. Everyone is welcome!

Jason Kitt
Brotherhood President

MEET AND GREETs WITH RABBI GRAY

A special TI Brotherhood-only Nosh with Josh is scheduled for Sunday, July 23rd at 10 AM in the Temple Courtyard. Come meet our new Rabbi. You can ask questions and hear from him directly about his exciting plans for Temple Isaiah.

Let Rabbi Josh know your ideas, concerns and recommendations.

This is a joyous time at our Temple. Come and celebrate a new beginning! Please let me know if you will attend. For those who can't be there on July 23rd, we have August 13th reserved as well.
